

Salutations!!!

(News from Friday, October 25, 2019)

Just in case you don't recall, "Salutations!" is the way Charlotte first addresses her dear friend Wilbur in the book Charlotte's Web. Throughout the first five chapters of this book, our First Graders have learned many impressive vocabulary words from Charlotte (a very articulate spider), Wilbur, and their friends. These words include "salutations," as well as:

runt	injustice	weaking	untimely
specimen	promptly	adoring	enchanted
manure ☺	vanish	perspiration	glutton
cellar	orchard	commotion	captivity
trough	distribute	astride	bestirred
distinct	solemnly	exertions	adjourned

Wow!!! And that's just the beginning!!!

This week has also included:

*What incredible fun we had on Tuesday, when we dressed as characters from our favorite books. GREAT CREATIVITY!

*We got to explore our brand new LIBRARY. I hope you were able to come back to school for the evening "ribbon-cutting" event!

*Lots of "pumpkin" explorations!

A Look Ahead:

*Enjoy the Halloween Carnival and Parade tonight! At this point, I plan to be there. Will you recognize me???

*Our party will take place next Thursday. Many thanks to the moms who are "hosting" this event: Susan Swint, Gina Miller, and Leslie Lucas. They have a meaningful "Community Connections" activity planned for the exciting hour. I feel certain there will be some gluten-free goodies, too! ☺

No costumes for the party, please!

*Our school-wide Thanksgiving Dinner will take place on Thursday, November 14th. You'll be receiving more information soon.
